Monthly Summary of the Tokyo Market

- The Nikkei Stock Average (Nikkei 225) closed October at 28892.69, declined 559.97 points (1.90%) from the end of September. While the reduction of the Covid-19 new infection cases continued, Japan's new Prime Minister, Fumio Kishida's tax policy on investment assets made the market sentiment cool down. The financial concerns on Evergrade, a Chinese real-estate developer, and the inflationary pressure due to soaring oil price also cast a shadow on investors' risk-taking attitude.
- The Japanese Yen slid against US dollar in October, and it once recorded the lowest in almost 3 years. A weaker currency supported the stocks related to the foreign demands.
