

Nikkei Indexes Monthly Newsletter Vol.31

July 2022 Edition

Monthly Summary of the Tokyo Market

- The Nikkei Stock Average (Nikkei 225) closed June at 26393.04, dropped 886.76 points (3.25%) from the end of May. Move by the major central banks including the U.S. Federal Reserve to raise their interest rates and to tighten their monetary policies gave rise to concerns over deceleration of the world economy. While Japanese Yen weakened against US dollar, surge of the import prices cast a shadow over the market sentiment.
- In the first half of the year 2022, Nikkei 225 declined 2398.67 (8.33%) from the end of 2021. The decline may be attributed to worries over the world economy's downtrend caused by the concerns over tightening monetary policy by the Federal Reserve due to the consumers price hike, the impact of Russia's invasion into Ukraine, and Shanghai's lockdown by surging infection cases of the Covid-19 also created.
- The new Japanese equity index, Nikkei 225 Climate Change 1.5°C Target Index, which was jointly developed with the U.S. Wilshire lost 867.03 (3.19%) and ended at 26277.33.
